

President Lists Legislation He Wants Urgently

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower Wednesday listed six parts of his legislative program whose failure to pass this year he said would be more than bitterly disappointing to him.

Another, a hike in the national debt limit, he termed a necessity. He did not list as still in front of the Senate, as he phrased it, an atomic energy bill which his lieutenants regard as "must" legislation.

Rejected In Senate

Leaving out some of the respects in which these bills fall short of the President's requests, here is their status:

Farm—A modified system of flexible price supports has been passed by the House, but rejected by the Senate Agriculture Committee. Senate debate may start Friday.

Tax revision—The House passed a compromise bill 315-77 Wednesday and Senate action may send it to the White House today.

Anti-Communist—action is pending on various anti-subversive bills proposed by Atty. Gen. Brownell. None has yet passed both houses and prospects are that not more than one or two will be enacted.

Housing—The Senate completed congressional action Wednesday night, sending to the White House a measure providing a smaller public housing program than the President asked.

Committee Balks

Social security—The House has passed a bill to extend coverage to nearly 10 million persons. The Senate Finance Committee has recommended a trimmed-down version. Senate debate has not been scheduled.

Foreign aid—Authorization for the current year's program is before the Senate, having passed the House. The House passed Wednesday the separate money bill to finance it. This is still in committee in the Senate.

Debt limit—The House passed a year ago a 15-billion-dollar hike in the legal ceiling, now 275 billions. The Senate Finance Committee balked, and still is sitting on the bill.

Atomic energy—The House sent to conference with the Senate Wednesday a bill to revise the Atomic Energy Act. Several major differences must be resolved.

Statue Ridiculed In Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Art is a pretty dangerous word around City Hall these days. Mention it in the hearing of a councilman and he'll most likely flip his lid.

The reason is a 14-foot bronze statue of an American family without faces and practically without curves.

Bernard Rosenthal, who sculpts with a welding torch, is supposed to get $10,000 for it. Councilmen, as ex-officio critics, decided Wednesday they would try to break this contract.

Rosenthal designed the statue for the new police building. A modern concept, it symbolizes the family under the protective wing of the cop. Councilmen got a gander at his model in the past few days.

A few of their criticisms:

Ernest E. Debs: "No eyes, no nose, no ears. Whoever designed this must have a low opinion of the American family."

Don A. Allen: "Maybe we'll have another metal salvage drive."

Council President John Gibson: "Let's give it to the California Taxpayers Assn."

Congressmen Cool On Rhee's Plea For War On Red China

By SPENCER DAVIS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Syngman Rhee neared the end of his White House talks today after winning personal acclaim but a cool reception for his plea to Congress for war against Red China now.

After laying a wreath at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier, the South Korean President was to have his fourth and perhaps last session with President Eisenhower since arriving in Washington Monday.

So far neither American nor Korean sources have given out word on how the conferences are progressing. Rhee is said to seek more military and economic help for his war-ravaged country and U.S. backing of his ambition to unify it by driving the Communists out of North Korea. Eisenhower reportedly wants Rhee to go easy on his unite-Korea-by-force plans and to adopt a more friendly policy toward neighboring Japan. A joint statement is expected at the end of the talks.

The White House did not make known Eisenhower's views Wednesday on the South Korean's fighting talk before a joint session of Congress, although the speech conflicted with Eisenhower's previously stated views against the concept of a preventive war.

Addressing senators and congressmen in a soft, emotion-packed voice, the 79-year-old Asian patriot urged that American warships blockade China, that U.S. Air Force bombers hit its productive centers and that an Asian anti-Communist army of two million South Koreans and Chinese Nationalists — equipped by the United States — strike out and destroy the Red regime. He also declared that the one-year-old Korean armistice should be scrapped.

"Unless we win China back," he declared "an ultimate victory for the free world is unthinkable."

Rock Collapse Gives Niagara Improved Look

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y. (AP) — Thousands of tourists jammed the edges of the Niagara gorge today, awaiting possible new rockfalls in the wake of the thundering collapse that practically destroyed Prospect Point and sliced a piece out of the American side of Niagara Falls Wednesday.

Cracks extended more than 50 feet upstream from the ragged edge left after an estimated 185,000 tons of rock slipped from the top of the 170-foot chasm. Some of the cracks were six to eight inches in width and appeared to be widening.

Engineers and geologists reported they might have to dynamite some parts of the area to create a safe observation point to replace the Old Prospect point.

Two sections of the point, one bearing a mature tree, hung precariously over the gorge.

Officials estimated that new falls might send an additional 50,000 tons of rock into the gorge.

Woman Rider, 31, Dies With Horse

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Trudy Tollin went horseback riding in scenic Fairmount Park Wednesday. The 31-year-old woman and her horse, "Bebe," were a familiar sight on the park's paths for the past several years.

A short while later a mounted park policeman came across a bizarre scene in a secluded wooded glen.

The woman and her mount lay side by side. Both had been shot through the head with a .22 calibre rifle which was rigged to a nearby tree branch. The horse's head was covered with a blue denim skirt.

Police said the woman apparently shot the horse and then took her own life.

In her hand were five playing cards — a pair of aces and three eights, a full house in poker and a combination close to the traditional "dead man's hand" of the same game, two aces and two eights.

Carved on the wooden stock of the death rifle was this inscription: "Speak not in anger. In mercy, whisper; in vengeance, sing."

Politics Delaying U.S. Security Bills, Sen. McCarran Says

By JOHN CHADWICK

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. McCarran (D-Nev.) said today Atty. Gen. Brownell has injected politics into national security and that this accounts in part for a lack of action on the administration's anti-subversive bills.

Most if not all of the other major parts of the administration program, leaders of both parties agreed, seem likely to pass in some form.

McCarran also said some of the anti-subversive measures submitted to Congress by the Justice Department "have been so loosely drawn that they rattle." He is a former chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee and its Red-hunting Internal Security subcommittee.

American Assistance Available To Egypt

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is ready to offer military and economic aid to Egypt as part of its drive to bolster the Near East against possible Communist aggression.

Officials reported today that negotiations would begin within a few weeks.

Egypt's agreement with Britain over the future of the Suez Canal is viewed as clearing the way for American assistance.

Officials declined to say how much aid Egypt would be offered.

Eisenhower Endorses Democrat In Texas; Test Of Popularity

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower appears to have invited a test of his political popularity in Texas that could reverberate in the fall campaign for control of Congress.

The President's unusual action Wednesday in endorsing Gov. Allan Shivers, Texas Democrat who is bidding for a renomination that is normally equivalent to re-election, may make Shivers' connection with the President one of the chief issues in an Aug. 28 runoff primary.

Texas Democrats in Washington who asked not to be named disagreed about the possible effect of Eisenhower's news conference statement that Shivers has made a good governor.

Some thought it might recount to the benefit of Ralph Yarborough of Austin. Yarborough ran 23,852 votes behind Shivers in the first primary last Saturday. Because of votes for other candidates, neither major polled a majority, so a runoff is necessary.

Other Texans said they believe Eisenhower is just as popular in their state as he was when he carried it by 133,000 votes in 1952 and that his public praise will help Shivers.

Shivers, who backed Eisenhower in the 1952 presidential race and has maintained close relations with the President, has been under fire in Texas in connection with a personal land deal and an investigation of insurance companies.

Texans generally said these matters—plus the action of former Vice President John Garner in criticizing a third elective term bid—may have been more compelling than any issue of party regularity in Shivers' slide from the 2-1 vote margin he rolled up over Yarborough in 1952. Yarborough had supported this year of most Democrats who call themselves liberals.

Kidnaper Hopes To Delay Death

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (AP) — Convict-author Caryl Chessman has only one day left to outsmart the executioner. He has done it before and hopes to do it again.

The 32-year-old convicted rapist and kidnaper said he will appeal to the U. S. Supreme Court today. He is scheduled to die in the San Quentin Prison gas chamber at 10 a. m. Friday.

For six years Chessman's legal maneuvers have saved him from execution.

On May 22, 1948 he was convicted in Los Angeles of eight counts of robbery, four of kidnapping, two counts of sex perversion on victims, one count of attempted robbery, one of attempted criminal assault and one of auto theft.

Chessman, acting as his own attorney told the jury:

"I never molested any woman. Either acquit me of these charges of give me the death sentence."

Chessman has made his own funeral arrangements and rewritten his will disposing of estimated $20,000 proceeds from his book, "Cell 2455, Death Row." He set up trust funds for three children of people who had befriended him, but refused to make their names public.

Waynesburg, Pa. Wagers On Rain Every July 29

WAYNESBURG, Pa. (AP) — A "rain crew" took up a vigil promptly at 12-01 a. m. today to record the slightest precipitation in this southwestern Pennsylvania community of 8,000.

The crew, says Attorney John Daily, will stay on duty at the courthouse steps until midnight to-night—if necessary—to keep faith with Waynesburg's tradition.

The tradition goes back to 1877 when someone, for reasons best known to himself, said it would rain on July 29 and it did.

Since then, according to Daily's statistics, it has failed to rain July 29 on only seven occasions.

For the past few years Daily has wagered a hat with some celebrity that it would rain. He has quite an accumulation of headgear now.

This year's "fall guy," is Bill Corum, sports writer and president of Churchill Downs.

If it does rain, Corum has promised to make Daily an honorary Kentucky colonel.

Sergeant Freed Of Keeping Men In Broiling Sun

FT. DIX, N.J. (AP) — A wiry, one-eyed non-commissioned officer with six years of Army service behind him Wednesday was cleared of charges that he kept 225 recruits at bone-taut attention for an hour in 92-degree heat.

Sgt. L.C. Richard J. Witbeck, 24, of Wellington, Ohio, breathed a sigh of relief as a three-man, special court-martial board of three of his superior officers acquitted him after deliberating 40 minutes.

"I feel very good," Witbeck said outside the pine-paneled hearing room. "I'm glad it's all over."

The verdict thus wiped clean the slates of the two principals brought up on charges as a result of the June 21 punishment formation during which men were said to have passed out in the broiling sun, been revived with pails of water and forced back into line.

First Lt. Robert S. Morgan, 28, of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Witbeck's immediate superior and commander of Company "L," 272 Infantry Regiment, which stood the formation, was cleared of "dereliction of duty" charges last Friday.

Witbeck, who wears a patch over his left eye, lost in a training mishap while on occupation duty in Austria, pleaded innocent to allegations of maltreatment of personnel. He did not take the stand in his own defense and did not exercise his right to have other enlisted men sit on the court.

Approval Of Suez Evacuation Brings Test For Churchill

By HAL COOPER

LONDON (AP) — A serious conservative party rift over Britain's Suez Canal Zone pact with Egypt handed the Laborite opposition a tempting chance today to force the resignation of Prime Minister Churchill. It was doubtful the Socialists would seize the chance.

The test comes in a House of Commons vote tonight on Churchill's motion demanding Parliament's approval of the agreement to pull Britain's 83,000 troops out of the strategic Canal Zone.

A group of 40 rebellious Conservatives, angered at seeing another bit of Britain's dwindling empire crumble away, have served notice they will vote against the government.

With only a nominal Conservative majority of 20 votes in the 625-member House, Churchill thus was in the uncomfortable position of having to depend on his Socialist opponents for the support necessary to put his policy across.

The ticklish situation in Commons was one of several troubles currently plaguing the old warrior who has yet shown no inclination to heed the urging of his wife and doctors that he retire.

Most observers thought the Socialists could not vote Churchill out. The official policy of the Labor party has long been in favor of pulling British troops out of the Canal Zone.

Themselves badly split between the moderate followers of former Prime Minister Clement Attlee and the leftist rebels led by Aneurin Bevan, the Laborites also would run the risk of a sound trouncing in the general election which would follow a government fall.

Chicago Fire Site Sold For Factory

CHICAGO, Ill. (AP) — Without a bit of sentiment the City Council Wednesday approved the sale of a small plot of land at 538 W. DeKoven St. — possible as the site of a small factory.

It was on that site, legend has it, that Mrs. O'Leary's cow almost knocked Chicago right off the map. The cow was blamed for overturning the lantern that touched off the Chicago fire of 1871. The fire raged for three days destroying the heart of Chicago with an estimated loss of 196 million dollars.

Senate Leaders Predict OK Of 1000-Page Bill

By JOE HALL

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower's huge tax revision bill, which he terms the cornerstone of his 1954 domestic program, today may clear its final congressional hurdle.

The Senate planned to take up the 1,000-page measure, a complete overhaul of the nation's tax laws, sometime during the afternoon barring a last-minute program change.

Senate Republican leaders predicted confidently they had the votes to send the compromise bill to the President's desk, in the face of a last-chance battle by some Democrats to knock out of the bill a controversial tax cut on dividends to stockholders.

Their chances of success appeared small since Sen. George (D-Ga.), top Democratic member of the Senate Finance Committee, was ready to go along with the compromise bill. He said the good things in it outweighed the bad.

The House passed the bill, a compromise of separate Senate and House versions, by a 316-77 vote Wednesday. Democrats there lost 227-169 in an attempt to knock out the dividend tax relief.

Way Is Cleared For Bingo Vote

LANSING (AP) — An attorney general's opinion was believed today to have cleared the way for a November vote on legalizing charity bingo in Michigan.

Atty. Gen. Frank G. Millard liberalized eight rulings under which the secretary of state's office had tossed out some 40,000 petition signatures that left the bingo proposal 231 names short of the number necessary to secure a place on the November ballot.

Charles R. MacLean, attorney for the Michigan Assn. of Non-Profit Charitable Organizations, the bingo sponsors, said he could not comment on the effect of Millard's ruling, but he added: "It looks awfully good."

State elections officials conceded that bingo probably would face the voters this fall. They said, however, that opponents of the bingo vote, the Detroit and Michigan Council of Churches, may take the issue to the State Supreme Court.

The State Board of Canvassers has agreed to meet Aug. 9 to consider the issue.

Curb Breaking Permit Denied

Escanaba City Council in special meeting Wednesday afternoon rescinded a permit issued to Kenneth Lequia, proprietor of Pete's Grocery, 507 S. 17th St., to break the street curb to provide truck unloading and parking space in front of the store, which would have been contrary to city ordinance.

The store is a non-conforming use in a Class A residential district. Several residents in the immediate vicinity of the store protested the curb breaking as: 1—Creating a traffic hazard to children, and 2—Tending to devalue residential property in the area.

Lequia presented to the Council a petition signed by persons in the neighborhood approving the curb breaking.

City Attorney Denis McGinn, requested by the Council to cite the ordinance, reported that the curb change in a Class A residential district would be "in contravention of the ordinance."

In view of this opinion and the protests voiced by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Thorsen, Mrs. Oscar Vannberg, and Mr. and Mrs. Francis Rodgers, the Council voted unanimously to deny a permit to break the curbing for 50 feet in front of the store.

In denying the permit, the Council noted that the store is a non-conforming use in a Class A residential area, and that since the city is "somewhat responsible" for issuing a permit to break the curb the city should put the curbing back.

The permit was issued July 22 by the city and the curb breaking was ordered halted by the city when objections were received.

Michigan Crops Get Needed Rain

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Michigan's thirsty croplands and cities soaked under a blanket of rain today that will probably become close to half an inch by nightfall.

The rain came in the nick of time for many communities which had invoked emergency measures to bolster failing water pressures.

Farmers too needed the rains for their seared crops.

The weather bureau said the rain extended the length of a front beginning with a storm center over the southwestern Hudson Bay region in Canada.

A cold front near Minnesota was due to bring cooler air into Michigan Saturday, if it is not washed off by warm air from the south.

Across the Canadian border in neighboring Ontario, farmers felt that the rain, though welcome, was still inadequate for their sunburned crops.

Detroit reported that water pressures were on their way back to normal, after lawn sprinkling and park fountains were all but cut off from water use. The suburbs were the hardest hit by the water shortage and southeastern Oakland County almost lost all its water.

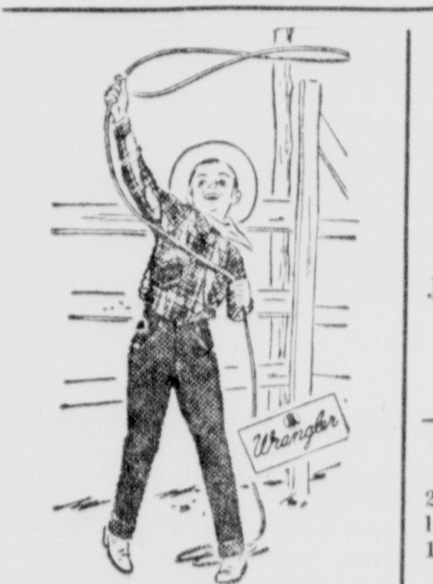

Pontiac reported no water difficulties, but other communities such as Kalamazoo, Battle Creek, Port Huron and Mt. Clemens suffered shortages in the two-day sun and heat wave.

The main problem seemed to be the inadequacies of pumping stations to deliver enough water, despite the fact that many of the water-short communities border the Great Lakes.

Driver Absolved Of Negligence In Death Of Child

IRON MOUNTAIN—Prosecutor John V. Zanardi, following an investigation Tuesday night, reported that there was no evidence of criminal negligence homicide in the death of Dennis Matchett, 14-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Matchett, of Randville.

The child died of injuries sustained last Friday when he was struck by a car driven by William Burkart, of Iron Mountain. Burkart, employed by the Wisconsin-Michigan Power company, was making a business call at the Matchett farm home when the accident occurred.

Rock-Lathrop Road Job OK'd

State route M-35, between Rock and the Marquette county line at Lathrop, is to be reconditioned and improved.

The proposal was approved by State Highway Commissioner Charles Ziegler, who ordered William Karas, superintendent of the Delta county highway commission, to proceed with the work.

Funds to pay for it, amounting to $60,000 half of them a Federal allotment, were made available to the Delta commission upon the county's matching the $30,000 allotment.

This financing proved impossible for the county in its regular program. Money to match the allotment was just not available for county road work. Therefore Superintendent Karas turned over the allotment to the state highway department on condition that the money be spent in Delta county.

Commissioner Ziegler readily agreed to match the stretch allotment with $30,000 and apply the whole on M-35.

Delta county crews therefore will resume work on the reconditioning of the route, begun two years ago, when the stretch between Perkins and Rock was put in first class shape with bituminous concrete and new and widened shoulders and drainage. The six-mile strip on the north end of M-35 in Delta county is in rather rough condition due to patching and frost-heaving.

Guardsmen Receive Special Training At Camp Grayling

Instruction teams from Fifth Army area regular army units will be on hand at Camp Grayling from Aug. 7 to 21 to provide specialized and technical assistance to the training mission of units of the Michigan National Guard at its eighth post war field training encampment, according to Capt. Roy J. Johnson, commanding officer of Co. C 107th Engineers.

The selected army teams will provide instruction for infantry, artillery, armored, and engineer units, during the two weeks. An armored team will be on hand to assist the guard's tank units, at Camp Grayling's outstanding armored training center. The engineers will receive special instruction in the use of demolitions, and removal of obstacles.

Commander of the Co. C platoon for all tests will be Lt. George C. Anderson, with M-Sgt. Joseph Simmons as assistant. Squad leaders will be Sgt. Charles Oshund, Sgt. Dale Carley and Sgt. Lloyd Russell. The testing will be climaxed with a two day field problem by the whole division, under combat conditions. The engineers have the mission of supporting the infantry in a defensive movement.

Young men in this area have an opportunity to take advantage of the training and to learn a military specialty while living at home and continuing their schooling, Capt. Johnson, said. If they enlist before the end of July they will be entitled to regular army pay, plus state pay while at Camp Grayling.

Board Approves Medical Office

An application of Dr. F. C. Anderson of Escanaba to construct a medical office at 220 S. 10th St. was approved Wednesday afternoon at a meeting of the Board of Appeals in City Hall.

The district in which the medical office is proposed to be built is zoned for local business. A residence is now located on the lot.

The Board of Appeals ordered a public hearing in connection with the application of Patrick Degnan of the Degnan Funeral Home, 302 S. 12th St., to construct a 30 by 36-foot addition. The funeral home is in a Class B residential district. All property owners within a 300-foot area will be notified and date of the hearing will be announced soon.

In annual organization meeting yesterday the Board of Appeals elected Atty. John G. Erickson as its chairman for the ensuing year. H. C. Nicholson is vice chairman and Emil Zittner secretary.

Other members of the Appeal Board are L. J. Jacobs and Bruce Brackett.

The Appeal Board is appointed by the City Council and serves as a body to hear applications for

Marinette Area Reports Numerous Rustling Forays

MARINETTE—Marinette County Sheriff James Spangler was on the trail of rustlers Wednesday.

Town of Amberg Farmer Virgil Wartick reported that one of his cows had been slain with an ax, while Ray Karpasinski of the Town of Stephenson said one of his cows was shot to death while another, wounded, was saved by a veterinarian.

Spangler said an attempt had been made to butcher one of the cows but apparently the rustlers were frightened away before completing the job.

Sheriffs Pick New Officers

Election of directors and a new slate of officers was the last order of business of the 30th annual Sheriffs Convention which ended Wednesday. Merritt McBride, Huron county, was elected president; Charles Osterberg, Wexford county, vice president; and Louis Johnson, Allegan county, was re-elected secretary-treasurer. Two new directors, William Miron, Delta county and Evert Peck, Eton county were elected. Sheriffs who were re-elected as directors are: Al Jacobson, Marquette county and Ferris Lucas, St. Clair county.

A banquet at the House of Ludington ended the social activities of the three-day convention which was attended by over 200 people including law enforcement officers and their families. Attorney Wheaton Strom was the toastmaster and Col. Jack Major, Paducah, Ky., was the guest speaker.

Sault Ste. Marie was the only city which made a bid for the convention location for next year. The host city will be chosen at a later date by the board of directors.

Bad weather conditions yesterday cancelled visits from state officials who were expected to attend the convention. Among those expected were Attorney General Frank Millard, State Treasurer D. Hale Brake and Secretary of State Owen J. Cleary.

Democrats Have One Hot Primary Race For Lieutenant Governor

LANSING (AP)—The only office to attract much heat among Democrats in next Tuesday's primary election is one usually not fought over—the lieutenant governorship. The Republicans have only one candidate in the primary for that office, Lt. Gov. Clarence A. Reid of Detroit—so they can't work up much interest.

But the Democrats are having their hottest fight in the race between Philip A. Hart of Birmingham and George S. Fitzgerald of Detroit.

Williams Takes Sides
The only reason there is all this excitement over a relatively unimportant post is that Gov. Williams has come right out in the open and asked Democrats to defeat Fitzgerald. This broke primary election tradition and made some Democrats mad.

Williams is out to cut down Fitzgerald because "Fitz" is a former Democratic national committeeman who broke with Williams and gave "aid and comfort" to Republicans in the 1950 elections.

So Williams wants Hart as his running mate—and Hart has long been close to the governor.

Hart, 42, was born at Bryn Mawr, Pa., into an old-line Democratic family. He is a graduate of Georgetown University and the University of Michigan law school. He is a vice-president of the Detroit Tigers and a director of the Detroit Lions.

In 1949, Williams appointed Hart state corporations and securities commissioner. Later, he became U. S. district attorney for the eastern district of Michigan, Michigan director of the Office of Price Stabilization and then legal adviser to the governor.

He served with the 4th Infantry

Noe Carignan Dies At Age 90

He is survived by his stepchildren, Ed and Octave Carignan, Cornell; William, Cornell Rte. 1; Rene, Barbeau, Wis.; Mrs. David (Agnes) Guindon, Ottawa, Canada; Mrs. Edward (Helen) Gascon, Escanaba Rte. 1, and Mrs. Dona (Marie) King, Gladstone Rte. 1.

To Teach Them Lesson Boys Are Locked Up

PEORIA, Ill. (AP)—Police got a report that two boys were kidnapped by a man who grabbed them and locked them in the trunk of an automobile. The car was traced to Harold Walker who said the youngsters were his brothers. He searched for them when they failed to return home on time. To teach them a lesson he locked them in a trunk of the car while driving them home.

Attorney For AFL
Fitzgerald is the first to concede that he has served part of his public career as the gift of the Republicans. That party made him assistant U. S. district attorney and member of the State Welfare Commission, whence he resigned after 11 years to enter this year's contest.

Fitzgerald long has been attorney for the powerful AFL Teamsters' Union, which has been hostile to Williams recently.

Reid, 61, was born in a log cabin near Circleville, Ohio, and was graduated from the University of Michigan law school in 1920. He is the father of three children. Reid was elected to the Senate for 10 years from the 18th District, one of the few to break the tradition of Democratic senators in Wayne County. He was elected lieutenant governor in 1952.

He is widely known for his gusty humor, his schrewd political sense and his down-to-earth campaign methods.

Caspian Miner Killed In Fall Tuesday Night

CASPIAN — Enrico D'Agostini, 51, a veteran Verona mine employee, was killed at 10:30 Tuesday night when he fell only six feet into a raise on the 106-foot sub-level below the sixth level at the Zimmerman mine.

Mine officials investigating said that D'Agostini met death as a result of slipping accidentally or suffocation.

D'Agostini was alone when the accident occurred. His partner, Charles Podboyec, had left the place of work for about five minutes when he went to get some fuse preparatory to blasting, and, upon returning failed to find D'Agostini at work. He had fallen into the raise. D'Agostini and Podboyec were engaged in opening up a stope below the sixth level.

No inquest will be held, Ray J. LaFave, county coroner, said.

Discrimination In Taxation Charged By Chemical Co.

IRON MOUNTAIN — Claims of excessive tax assessments and discrimination in the evaluation of property owned by the Kingsford Chemical Co. were charged by Attorney Paul Rahm, counsel for the company, in its lawsuit against the City of Kingsford, in which the company seeks to recover $36,515.62 in taxes paid in 1953.

The initial hearing in the case got underway shortly after 10:30 Wednesday morning in circuit court, with Judge Glenn W. Jackson presiding.

A jury of eight men and four women was agreed upon by the counsels after an hour and 15 minutes of processing of the entire slate of veniremen chosen for the case.

FLINT MICH. (AP)—Flint asked for bids on a new sidewalk. Blackford Brothers bid $2,586.12. But the city's own crews had the lowest bid of $2,213.16.

The Blackfords misunderstood, thought they had the job, and built the sidewalk. The City Commission, seeing it was a good sidewalk, paid the Blackford Brothers—the figure the city bid.

More Deaths, More Injured On Michigan Highways During 1953

HOW are we doing in our traffic safety program?

The foreword by Joseph A. Childs, Michigan State Police commissioner, of the booklet, Michigan Traffic Accident Facts, compiled by the State Police is significant, we think:

"There were more drivers, more cars, and more miles of travel on Michigan streets and highways during 1953 than ever before and this exposure resulted in more casualties, deaths and injuries combined, and more reported accidents than any year on record."

Michigan has 11,896 persons killed and 57,634 persons injured in highway accidents last year. There were 184,174 accidents. All of these figures constitute increases from the previous year.

There also were, however, more licensed drivers, more cars registered and more millions of miles driven on the state roads and streets. The result was death rate per 100 million vehicle miles virtually identical with the previous year.

What were the causes of these fatal automobile accidents? Well, 46 per cent were caused by motorists driving too fast for existing conditions. Other causes were disregard of stop or warning signal, 15 percent, driving on wrong side of road, 10 percent; failure to grant right of way to vehicle or pedestrian, 9 percent; improper passing, 7 percent; driving under the influence of alcohol, 5 per cent; improper turns, 3 percent.

The figures show conclusively that speed is the big killer. Improper speed caused almost as many traffic fatalities as all other causes combined and three times as many traffic fatalities as the second largest cause of such accidents.

How did we fare in Delta County? The five year total of traffic deaths by counties shows that Delta County with 52 deaths led all other counties in the Upper Peninsula. Not a very bright record is it?

However, the figures for 1953 showed an improvement in Delta County over previous years. There were nine traffic deaths in the county last year compared with 17 the previous year. Chippewa with 11, Marquette with 16 and Menominee with 10 had more traffic deaths last year than Delta County.

During the eight year postwar period 1946-1953, there were 12,747 persons killed, 356,309 injured in 1,214,860 reported accidents in Michigan. The National Safety Council estimates that the cost of these accidents was $1,155,000,000. Read that figure over slowly—one billion, one hundred fifty five million dollars. All this, in addition to the suffering, heartache, broken homes and other losses which cannot be measured or evaluated.

Traffic accidents continue to be one of the biggest and most vexing domestic problems facing the country. Alas, we have not advanced far towards solution of the problem despite the great volume of work that has been devoted to that end.

Inviting Attack

WHEN Igor Gouzenko, the famous Russian code clerk, broke to the West and told his story to Canadian authorities, the latter went to great pains to protect him for all time against Soviet reprisals. The Australians do not appear to have profited by Canada's example.

In a strikingly similar affair, they gained the benefit of a break-away by Vladimir Petrov, former Soviet secret police agent, who has been telling them in detail how the Russian spy net operates in Australia.

At first the Australians were careful to cloak Petrov's appearance and movements in secrecy. But now that he is unfolding his story of espionage, the government has inexplicably taken the wraps off.

He goes for walks lightly escorted, inviting attack by a Soviet avenger. His face has been widely photographed, and it would now be impossible to give him a secret identity, as the Canadians did Gouzenko. Crowds are allowed to gather around his car.

Perhaps the Australians ought to re-read how Leon Trotsky, famed Stalin enemy, died in Mexico. Presumably safe in an obscure spot, living a quiet life out of the public eye, he looked up one day in his study to face a supposed friend, who hacked him to death with an axe.

The Doctor Says... Bed Rest Is Effective In Treating Most Ulcers

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M. D. — Written for NEA Service

New methods of treating ulcer of the stomach or peptic ulcer are reported at rather frequent intervals. Many of these represent real improvement in the methods available for treatment, but it seems safe to say that there is no one method which is the answer to the treatment of all ulcer problems.

Some of the most widely heralded new treatments have, in fact, sunk by the wayside.

ONE OF THE reasons for this common experience is that ulcers of the stomach frequently improve temporarily on rest alone, regardless of the treatment. They are also affected favorably or unfavorably by changes in diet, increasing or lessening of emotional strain—and perhaps many other things.

In saying this, however, I do not wish to minimize the importance of good management for stomach ulcers because this is of the greatest importance.

Most of the treatments for ulcers are aimed either at the stomach itself or the nervous cause. The acid which is normally present in the stomach tends to increase in the presence of ulcer, and this acid is irritating, thus preventing healing of the ulcer.

MANY OF THE treatments used, therefore, are designed to eliminate or lessen this irritating quality of the acid in the stomach, permitting the ulcer a greater chance to heal itself.

One of the most common treatments consists of frequent feeding of alkalis (such as soda) which combat the acid, and milk and cream and other small meals, which also decreases the free acid. Some gelatin-like substances called mucins have a similar effect.

Mucins are supposed to coat the area of the ulcer and protect it from the irritating acid stomach juices.

But these are only a few of the many treatments which have been tried for ulcer. Special drugs, the injection of foreign proteins, the administration of amino acids which are the building blocks of proteins, and many other methods are commonly used.

ULCERS TEND to come back and the symptoms get worse whenever a person is subjected to undue mental or emotional strain. For this reason some people think that the eventual solution of the ulcer problem will be some method of treating the nervous system rather than the ulcer itself.

Cutting the nerve—the vagus—which runs to the stomach, is one way of attacking this problem. This method is now in common use when the circumstances are considered favorable. Other surgical methods also have an important place in treatment.

Whatever the treatment employed, best results are usually obtained when the patient starts it by going to bed and staying there for about three weeks. In this way the strain of modern living and contact with other people is largely removed, at least temporarily.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—The Red China government has declared war on all airplanes of every nationality on the high seas which travel over waters even beyond the usual territorial limits of three miles from the shore line.

This is comparable to the famous declaration by the Kaiser's government in 1917, which threatened to destroy any shipping it pleased on the high seas—a pronouncement that led to American participation in World War I in defense of the rights of American citizens to travel in international waters on the passenger ships of any nation, neutral or belligerent.

News of the momentous step taken by the Red China government in defiance of international law was revealed for the first time in a speech by Anthony Eden, British foreign secretary, to the House of Commons in London.

Mr. Eden said that on July 23, after the unarmed British airliner was shot down—admittedly by fighter planes from Red China—30 miles from Hainan Island in southeast Asia, the British authorities in Hong Kong notified by radio the Communist airfield at Canton, China, giving details of the number and type of rescue planes that would be engaged in rescue work and in searching the area for survivors.

REDS GAVE WARNING

But an hour later, Mr. Eden now discloses, the Red Chinese replied that, while a British flying boat would be allowed to remain in the area, any other war planes which entered the area would be fired upon without further warning.

Three days later—July 26—American planes which were protecting rescue vessels and planes were attacked thirteen miles from Hainan, which location is well outside territorial waters. The American planes fired back and shot down two Communist planes.

This means that the Red China government deliberately ordered the attack and hence that there was nothing accidental about the encounter with the American planes which were engaged in a mission of mercy.

There is no information as to whether the American naval authorities in southeast Asia received word from the British in Hong Kong concerning the threat to fire on all planes except the one they specified would be immune.

Even if such word had been received, it is doubtful whether the United States government could accept as lawful the assumption by the Red China government of authority to say what ships or planes could or could not travel the waters or the air, respectively, beyond territorial limits. The fact is the American ships were there on an errand of rescue and that the Red Chinese fliers had already killed three American citizens, including two small children, who were traveling on the British passenger airplane.

FREEDOM OF THE SEAS

The United States historically has never yielded its view that the seas are free. The British government for many decades has firmly upheld what is known as "the freedom of the seas." Indeed, the right of armed as well as unarmed ships to approach and land on the shores of countries with which no state of war has been declared is inherent in the relations of governments in time of peace. The fact that a government is not recognized for diplomatic purposes does not mean it has a right to regard a government which denies recognition as in the same status as one that is at war.

By all the rules of international law, the Red China government has committed an act of war against the United States because the firing on American military planes was deliberate and was the result of an effort to extend authority beyond the territorial limits.

In days gone by governments which have been subjected to such an unfriendly act would not necessarily declare war but might land marines or troops in some port as a reprisal until such time as full satisfaction was granted by the offending government.

There have been some other incidents close to Siberian territorial waters when American unarmed planes engaged in weather observations have been fired upon but, presumably because no vigorous action was taken in reprisal then, the Communists in Asia evidently believe that none will ever be forthcoming.

So far as Congress is concerned, the unanimity of opinion as revealed in patriotic expressions by leaders of both parties indicates that American officials feel that public opinion will be with them if it becomes necessary to assert American rights in southeast Asia.

The Peiping radio is filling the air waves with charges about American "aggression" in a desperate effort to confuse the issue in the court of world opinion. But the Communists admitted the first attack, and the fact that they gave orders to fire on any search planes three days later is officially revealed. So evidence of the guilt of the Peiping government is conclusive.

Case Of Baby-Faced Helm Gives Grim Lesson To Army CI Corps

By DOUGLAS LARSEN

NEA Staff Correspondent

CAMP GORDON, Ga. (NEA)—

In a cop's book there's no worse crime than killing a cop. And there's practically no end they won't go to to catch a cop-killer.

So it is with the Army's Military Police and the CI men—criminal investigators—in the Military Police Corps.

That's why the Wilfried Johannes Helm case is drummed into every student in the MP's criminal investigation school here, and its grisly pictures hang in most MP detachments round the world as a stark warning to MPs to be careful.

Although it's one of the most notorious cases in the CI files here, it's now revealed publicly in full detail for the first time.

Helm, at 18, was a baby-faced, blue-eyed, pink-cheeked lad who could turn on the warmest smile, be disarmingly pleasant and speak beautiful German and English.

A few months ago, in fact, he proved that he had lost none of his charm, by sweet-talking a guard in a German jail into doing him a favor and then almost killing the guard in a bold escape plan. It didn't work.

Helm carved his notorious niche in MP history in May, 1948. He was sitting in a Munich jail brooding over the sentence he was serving for stealing and selling cigars when a brilliant idea struck him. He mulled over details of it, called a guard and said:

"I can't stand my conscience any more. I must confess that my buddy and I killed an American soldier near Rudesheim last year and hid his body there."

After Helm elaborated on the imagined killing, prison authorities reported it to the Military Police. Next day criminal investigator Walter E. Snyder and German detective Franz Eichinger arrived to drive Helm to the scene of the murder to locate the body.

Helm was chained, placed in the back seat of the Army sedan, and watched like a hawk during the trip to Rudesheim.

However, Helm noticed two things which excited him. Eichinger kept the key to the chains in his left pocket. And he kept his brief case which contained Helm's records and some cigars, in the back, a few inches from Helm's leg.

The search for the non-existent corpse lasted two days in the woods near Rudesheim before Snyder realized the whole thing was fishy and decided to take Helm back to Munich.

Irritated by the hoax, Eichinger had chained Helm's hands tightly behind his back in an extremely uncomfortable position. As they drove along the wide autobahn, Helm finally pleaded:

"Please let me have my hands in front so I can at least smoke." Eichinger obliged and fished out a cigarette from his brief case for Helm. In doing so, however, Eichinger nudged the brief case within reach of Helm's manacled hands.

It wasn't long before Helm was probing its contents in such a way that the men in the front seat couldn't see what he was doing. In the process, his exploring hands grabbed an object which caused his criminal brain to make an instantaneous decision.

He found Eichinger's pistol. Holding it in two hands, Helm pointed it at Eichinger's head and pulled the trigger once. Eichinger was probably dead by the time Helm fired two slugs into Snyder.

FIREY END FOR AN ARMY MP and a German detective came in this blazing sedan on the autobahn. Their prisoner thought killing them meant fool-proof escape, but he's in jail for life.

With some quick maneuvering Helm shoved Snyder's body aside, grabbed the wheel of the crazily-turning sedan, turned it on to a side road and then stopped it.

Helm moved fast. He fished the keys from Eichinger's pocket and freed himself. He robbed both men, stuffing Snyder's gun in his pocket. Then he removed all papers bearing on his own case from the brief case, soaked them in gasoline from the tank, put them in the back seat and ignited them.

As he ran off, he saw the car in flames.

Passers-by saw the smoke almost immediately and summoned MPs. But Helm escaped.

It didn't take the MPs long to make a pretty accurate reconstruction of what had happened. Aroused, they set in motion a manhunt which blanketed Europe like none before or since.

Not a community nor hamlet on the continent, including those in the Russian zones, were without handbills describing Helm and telling of his heinous crime. Even recruiting officers of the French and Spanish foreign legions were alerted.

Eighteen days later it paid off. Helm had crossed the border into Belgium and went on a spree of looting private homes in small villages. But he made the mistake of falling asleep in a house which he thought was unoccupied. He was rudely awakened to find himself surrounded by Belgian police.

Helm talked fast, claiming he was a British national. The police listened politely until he finished. Then one of them handed him an MP handbill.

Helm knew at once that his goose was cooked and admitted what he had done.

A quick trial won him a life sentence. A lot of Snyder's friends in the MP Corps thought death would have been too good for Helm.

But you can stop any Army MP today, ask him who Helm is, and he'll tell you in no uncertain terms. The fast-talking cop-killer gave them a grim lesson to remember.

Good Evening...

By CLINT DUNATHAN

PREVIEW—Within another year Escanaba will have, for the first time in its history, a real bandshell.

It will be the Karas Memorial Bandshell, for which plans are now being drawn by Arne Arntzen and his brother, Wally, of Escanaba. The other evening members of the Karas Memorial Committee received a preview of the preliminary plans—and were pleased with what they saw.

Modern in design, incorporating the latest developments in acoustics for such structures, the architects have chosen materials to make the bandshell conform in feeling to the other new buildings in Ludington Park.

The plans reveal a structure that will harmonize architecturally with the new beach house and the new water pumping and filtration plant.

Exterior walls of cut stone, concrete platform stage approximately 48 feet long and 25 feet wide, and the use of wood for the "shell" to direct the music to the audience, combine agreeable appearance and that most important factor—undistorted projection of sound from the stage.

THE ENTHUSIASTS—To keep the record clear and give the city its due, it should be noted that the Karas Memorial Committee is not responsible for the construction of the bandshell.

The committee, headed by Roy Pearson, is dedicated to a continuing program of raising money to assist in financing the project. This is being done by sponsoring the annual Karas Memorial Concerts, with all proceeds turned over to the city. Each concert has raised about $1,200.

Estimates on the cost of the bandshell have ranged up to $18,000 and $20,000. The Karas Memorial Committee's contribution to date is about $8,000. The committee is committed to continue its fund-raising for at least another three years.

But in the back of the minds of many of the committee members is the conviction that the Karas Concerts will become an established musical event in the community or many years to come.

TIME AND PLACE—According to the present schedule the bandshell is to be constructed next year as a city project.

A bandshell in Ludington Park was proposed some 20 years ago in the park "master plan" of development, but the bandshell has been necessarily delayed until funds were available. With assistance of the Karas Memorial Committee, the bandshell will at last become a reality.

The bandshell will be located in the south area of Ludington Park, which is being improved this summer by the city. Dredging up sand from the shallows offshore, the city sandpucker is depositing fill to raise the ground level.

Facing landward, the bandshell will be built south of the present lighted tennis courts, and seating will be on the slope looking toward the bay. A large parking area will be located near the bandshell.

A MAN OF MUSIC—Newcomers to the community may ask: Who was this man Karas, for whom a bandshell is to be built as a memorial?

Frank Karas died July 4, 1948 after devoting his lifetime to the cause of music—as a teacher, a musician, and an inspiration to those who love good music.

In Escanaba for more than 20 years he taught music in the public schools, and in his home to private students; he was director of the city band for many years; and Frank Karas generously gave his time and his talents to local entertainments.

He encouraged children of the community (many now grown to adulthood) if they had musical ability, and often provided them with instruments and private lessons—without cost.

He was a gentle and patient man, yet exacting and inspiring as a teacher. Never a man of wealth, he had no gift to give this community except his music—and this he gave generously. It is fitting that his name be remembered in a living memorial that will bring pleasure to thousands for many years to come.

Ambitious College Students See Future In Horseshoeing

AP Newsfeatures
SAN LUIS OBISPO, Calif. — The ancient trade of blacksmithing — seemingly out of place in this modern age — not only is more flourishing than people think, but has taken its place on a college curriculum.

The art of shoeing horses is full-time study for the leather-aproned students enrolled in California State Polytechnic College's unusual course in blacksmithing.

And the students put their learning into practice, high in the Sierra Nevada, during a two week field trip each summer.

Mountain Laboratory
After the aspiring farriers (proper name for horseshoers) have finished their 12-week course on the college campus they head for the mountains to service the five or six privately-owned pack horse outfits that rent out their animals to camping parties. The students are paid a nominal fee for making the rounds of these outfits.

Ralph Hoover, a young instructor at Cal Poly's horseshoeing laboratories, feels the horseshoeing business is not going to die out, even though the horse and mule population of the country is declining. And he's insistent about the proper methods of teaching a course in horseshoeing.

"It's useless to just read about how to shoe horses," Hoover says. "There's got to be many practice hoofs and shoes and then live horses and field trips, before the young man can really get the feel of the work."

Practical Course
And that's what the Cal Poly horseshoers do.

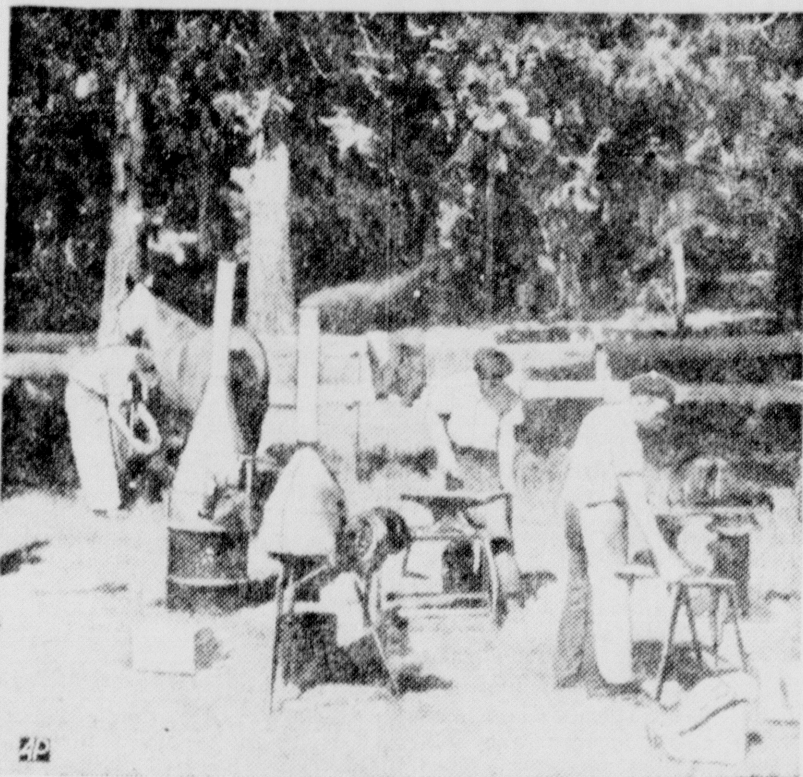

On the campus, they work eight hours a day, five days a week, at the business of shoeing, using mechanical stands that hold the practice legs and hoofs at the correct angle. A large deep freeze contains the horses' legs purchased from a nearby slaughter house.

And when they're "on location" — 7,000 feet up in the Sierra — they spread their tools, untie their sacks of coke for the fires, assemble their portable forges, unload the 100-pound kegs of horseshoes, and begin business.

Housed at the pack station employing them, the students rough it for two weeks, bathing in chilly mountain streams and resting in sleeping bags. And the pack station owners have come to depend on the student farriers. The pack animals move over narrow ledges, steep declines and rough passes that put the shoes to a good test. The Cal Poly men take as much care in fitting a horse's shoe as a salesman does in fitting a child's.

Future Prospects
Most of the horseshoe graduates never make blacksmithing their entire livelihood, but many occasionally work in show rings, race tracks, and roping arenas. Two Cal Poly graduates work on the harness track circuit, and one is secretary of a horseshoers' union.

What kind of students does the course attract?
"Well, we expect variety in a school of this kind," Hoover says. "One year two taxi drivers enrolled. Once we even had a bank teller."

WORKING their way through college, these students from California State Polytechnic are out in the mountains shoeing horses for vacation pack camps. It is part of the laboratory training for a horseshoeing course.

Pharaoh's Solar Boat Primitive Cult Work

WASHINGTON — Pharaoh Khufu's huge stone-encased "solar boat" discovered recently near his pyramid—the largest and most enduring monument in history — has renewed worldwide interest in the religious beliefs of ancient Egyptians.

To many people there is something pathetic in a great king's idea that a boat weighing tons and rowed through the heavens by spirit servants would be useful on the journey through eternity. But to Egyptians of Khufu's time, 2650 B. C., the notion came easily.

An analysis by William C. Hayes in the National Geographic Society's volume, "Everyday Life in Ancient Times," shows that Egypt's religion consisted of at least four unrelated cults or phases. None, in the opinions of archaeologists and theologians, ever passed beyond a primitive stage.

Life After Death
The Egyptian had two important convictions: (1) that he was immortal and that not only his spirit but his whole ego would live on after his earthly existence ended; and (2) that his life beyond the grave was to be an exalted version of his life on earth.

The first conviction, eliminating as it did much of his natural fear of death, combined with his innately sunny disposition to make him one of the most cheerful peoples in the world's history.

The second led him to provide his spirit not only with a home in which to dwell but also all the material possessions and surroundings which it had needed and loved during its earthly stay.

The line of royal pyramids, stretching from Cairo some 60 miles up the River Nile, are the most striking expressions of these ideas. At the same time they are a poignant witness to the futility of it all. Built to preserve the dead at enormous cost to the living, the great tombs have almost without exception fallen prey to the ever-present grave robber.

Climate Saved Relics
Both the kings and their treasures have been dragged from their resting places, leaving the empty stone monuments as memorials to man's beliefs. To this simple faith, however, the museums of the world owe their Egyptian treasures.

The dry climate of the valley of the Nile made Egypt a perfect storehouse for preservation of innumerable records and objects which its people loved to collect and put away. Thus was preserved the very chair in which Khufu's mother, whose name was Hetepheres, was carried on visits to her royal son. Her jewels and the chair have come down through nearly 5,000 years and are safe in the Egyptian Museum in Cairo.

From other tombs spared by ancient grave robbers have come filmy linen, delicate furniture of reed and wood, textiles, papyrus and paintings which would have perished in the damp climates of

Are Vital U. S. Secrets Safe?

By Congressional Quarterly
WASHINGTON—(CQ)—Are vital U. S. secrets being properly safeguarded?

Headlines about the Army-McCarthy hearings and the Oppenheimer case have dramatized the nation's internal security problems. But what of the laws and regulations established to protect vital information and materials? Are they adequate? And have they been violated?

Attention has focused on laws and regulations concerning classified information. These are generally little-known but a Congressional Quarterly survey shows individuals transmitting such information to unauthorized recipients do so at considerable risk.

The basic statutes governing unlawful transmission of materials are in the U. S. Criminal Code, and provide that "whosoever, lawfully having possession of . . . or being entrusted with any document, . . . which information the possessor has reason to believe could be used to the injury of the United States or to the advantage of any foreign nation, willfully communicates . . . to any person not entitled to receive it," is liable to a fine of up to $10,000 or imprisonment of up to 10 years, or both. If the material is conveyed by a member of the armed services, he is also liable to court martial.

If the material conveyed should be "restricted data" as defined by the Atomic Energy Act—that is, "data concerning the manufacture or utilization of atomic weapons, the production of fissionable material, or the use of fissionable material in the production of power"—and this data should be communicated "with intent to injure the United States or with intent to secure advantage to any foreign nation," the transmittor shall, upon conviction by a jury, be "punished by death or life imprisonment."

Security Program

In addition to the basic statutes, government employees are required to observe a series of administrative regulations.

In the executive branch the over-all regulations are contained in a series of executive orders issued by President Eisenhower. These established criteria to be used in determining whether an individual is likely to be a security risk and procedure to be used in investigations. They also set forth a new basis for classification of security material and provided procedures for its dissemination and its protection.

Application of these orders was made by the heads of departments and agencies handling classified material in the form of directives to their staff.

In the Defense Department, for instance, four major directives by the Secretary of Defense have spelled out civilian and military personnel security programs, and rules for the classification and safeguarding of materials.

Each of the Armed Services, in turn, has issued regulations applying the general Defense directives to its particular activities.

AEC Regulations

In the State Department, revisions in the manual of regulations and procedures incorporated the President's directive in a revamped security system.

At the Atomic Energy Commission, the problem of handling information is less a problem of defining what must not be transmitted outside the agency than a problem of determining what can be made public without injuring the U. S. effort.

Boy Punches Bear

CHICAGO (AP) — When a 400-pound grizzly bear bit the hand that fed him Monday, he got just what he deserved — a poke in the nose.

Nine-year-old Leonard Radermacher's left hook had sufficient authority to make the beast release Leonard's right hand, with which he had offered the bear a peanut. The boy had crawled under a guard rail to approach the bars of the cage.

The bear has been quarantined for observation to determine whether Leonard, son of a mail carrier, will need anti-rabies treatment.

Huge Redwood Cross To Be Erected At Indian River Shrine

INDIAN RIVER (AP) — Workmen began assembling a 14-ton, 55-foot California redwood crucifix to meet the Aug. 22 deadline when it will be dedicated at the Indian River Catholic shrine.

The huge cross is the gift of Miller Keller, an Indianapolis, Ind. printing company executive. Keller and his family have contributed $10,000 toward its purchase.

The gift was accepted last Sunday by Bishop Allen J. Babcock, of the Grand Rapids diocese.

With the crucifix is planned a 3,000 pathway for the way of the cross, which historically is the exact distance Christ walked to His crucifixion.

CURB CLIMBER DOES IT THE EASY WAY— Boon to invalids is this wheel chair which enables the passenger to climb or descend from curbs without assistance. Herbert Trampusch, left, one of its designers, demonstrates the vehicle, developed at New York University's engineering college. Close-up of mechanism, right, shows the retractable rods, controlled by handles on the chair arms, which raise or lower the self-help chair.

Economical Beef Roll-Ups Is Easy-To-Prepare Treat

BEEF-ROLL-UPS WITH OLIVE SAUCE is made of biscuit dough and inexpensive meat for good wintertime dish.

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor
You'll enjoy this combination of ground beef and biscuits. This recipe comes from friends who live on a farm up the Hudson River. They enjoy good food. Here's evidence.

Beef Roll-Ups
(Makes 8 roll-ups)
Filling: One pound lean ground beef, 1/3 cup nonfat dry milk powder, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/8 teaspoon pepper.

Biscuit: One and one-half cups sifted flour, 1/2 cup nonfat dry milk powder, 3 teaspoons baking powder, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/4 cup shortening, 2/3 cup water.

Filling: Combine all ingredients. Reserve.
Biscuit: Sift together flour, nonfat dry milk powder, baking powder, and salt. Cut in shortening with two knives or pastry blender until mixture resembles coarse corn meal. Add water a little at a time to make soft dough. Roll out on lightly floured board to rectangle 12 x 8-inches. Spread meat filling evenly over dough. Roll up lengthwise, jelly-roll fashion. Cut into eight parts approximately 1 1/2 inches thick. Bake on ungreased baking sheet in moderate oven (375 degrees F.) until browned, about 30 minutes.

Olive Sauce
(Serves 8)
One and one-half cups water, 1/3 cup nonfat dry milk powder, 3 tablespoons flour, 3/4 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon curry powder, 1/2 cup sliced stuffed olives.

Place water in top of double boiler. Sprinkle nonfat dry milk powder, flour, salt and curry powder over surface of water. Beat with a rotary beater until just blended. Cook, stirring constantly, over hot water until mixture thickens. Stir in sliced olives. Serve over Beef Roll-Ups.

Dior's Creations Go Back To 1920 Jazz Age Fashions

By PEGGY LAMSON

PARIS—Christian Dior today dropped the waist line to the hips, flattened the bust and sent women's fashions back to the jazz age of the 1920s.

Dior, pace-setter in women's fashions, set off an entirely new style when he showed off his fall and winter creations.

He called it "the H-line." If it catches on, as most Dior styles have done in the past, he will be tossing aside the winning, winsome, womanly curves of recent times.

Not Much Hip

The designer, who threw a bombshell into last fall's fashions by lifting women's skirts to 17 inches, has turned out a line that is flat, slender and boyish.

Hips are permitted but not much of them. What there is, however, is certainly reminiscent of the boyish bob, the speakeasy, the raccoon coat and the Charleston.

The new style is aimed at turning the atomic age woman back to the flapper of 1920.

Dior, who skyrocketed to fame a few years ago with his "new look," got a big round of applause from fashion writers as he showed off his new creations.

With his new style, Dior put the emphasis on a long, straight and narrow torso.

No Waist Lines

Coats and jackets all fall from sloping shoulders to a point just below the hips—at the haunch lifting women's skirts to 17 inches, —are not marked at all.

The straight cut pullover type bodice that is close fitting, clinging and fitting at the hips is featured in all day time wear.

Full skirted cocktail and evening dresses all stick to the same principle, the long torso with the fullness beginning at the hips or below.

With this new design, a 22-inch waist isn't going to be much help unless your other measurements are just as diminutive—no bust, no shoulders, no hips. What a gal will need is a straight, narrow, long torso.

Add some crumbled crisp bacon toast for a luncheon dish.

Mayme Hansen, S. H. Petersen Repeat Vows

The Presbyterian Church at Green Bay, Wis., was the setting for the candlelight nuptial service of Miss Mayme Hansen, former Escanaba resident, of Chicago and Sidney H. Petersen of Ketchikan, Alaska, Monday, July 26. The 5 p. m. ceremony was performed by the Rev. Mr. Adams.

Miss Hansen is the daughter of the late Capt. and Mrs. Hans P. Hansen.

Attending the couple were Mrs. Paul Richter, sister of the bride, as matron of honor, while the bride's brother-in-law, Paul Richter, acted as best man.

An ice blue ballerina length gown of tulle over taffeta fashioned with a scooped neckline was worn by the bride. She wore a matching hat and a corsage of pink tea-roses. The matron of honor was attired in a dusty rose suit dress with ice-blue trim. Her accessories were white.

Following the ceremony, a dinner for the wedding party and several relatives was served at the Chalet. The new Mrs. Petersen wore a navy suit when they left for their wedding trip to an undisclosed destination. Upon their return, they will reside at Ketchikan, Alaska.

Those attending the wedding from out-of-town were Mrs. C. H. Nichol, Escanaba; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Slattery, Green Bay, and Mrs. Tony Pittanti, Ishpeming.

Plan Ahead For Your Date

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor
If you're a teenager who develops a slight case of stage-bright when preparing for a special date, you can banish all "dressing-room" fears by planning everything a week in advance.
Make a complete list of what you'll wear. If it's to be a formal, have your gown ready. Look it over carefully to see if it needs pressing. Check the zipper, too. Being unable to get into a dress at the last minute is a real disaster.

Easy to Reach
Are your dancing shoes in good condition? Do they match or harmonize with the gown you're going to wear? If your shoes are ready to wear, wrap them with your evening bag in white tissue paper and put them in an empty hat-box in your closet. This way, they'll be safe and easy to reach.
Next, arrange your cosmetics and grooming aids on your dressing table. See to it that you have enough cold cream, hand cream, deodorant, etc., on hand and you'll avoid those frantic shopping trips when the time of the date is at hand.

Decide on what shade of lipstick and nail polish will set your gown off nicely. These, plus your powder and a few clean, cotton balls for applying it, will cover most of your make-up needs.

Protect Dress
Hair and nails should be attended to well in advance. A nylon scarf, placed on the same hanger with your dress, will remind you to tie it over your face and hair before slipping on your dress. The scarf will protect your dress from lipstick and make-up and your hair from mussing at the same time.
The girl who presents the prettiest, most relaxed appearance at a dance or party is the one who has planned everything ahead of time and can enjoy herself with confidence.

Bark River

Lions Outing
BARK RIVER—Members of the Bark River Lions club, their families and friends will meet Monday Aug. 3, 5:30 p. m., the first in a series of summer outings. The first outing is to be held at Pulaski Park. Entertainment and games for all ages has been organized by the committees.
King Lion Leo Brunelle announced that he hopes to have additional playground equipment installed this week for both the village park site and Pulaski Park.

In some ways, it's the dull little chores a girl attends to faithfully that go a long way in helping her grooming rating. For example, making a habit of sudsing your clothesbrush often will make it a lot easier for you to keep your dresses, suits and hats lint-free.

Women's Activities

Foundations Hold Smooth Lines

Corset & Brassiere Association: Swimsuit
It's no longer necessary for a girl to choose between glamor and outdoor fun. Now you can be as chic on the beach as on the dance floor. Swimming enthusiast (left) maintains smooth lines under her orlon-and-laxest bathing suit by wearing form-fitting elastic briefs. A pantie girdle that fits down over the thigh muscles protects the trim look of this golfer's chambray skirt (center).

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor
The term, outdoor girl, has just about lost its usefulness. Not too long ago, it meant one who sacrificed appearance for the sake of enjoying sports.

But such sacrifice is no longer necessary. A girl now can have her outdoor romping and glamor, too.

Special preparations for protecting the skin against sun and wind and for keeping coiffures in place help a great deal to safeguard one's grooming during a day at the beach, at the golf course or tennis court.

And they are being packaged for easy toting in brief sports outfits.

The undercover story is quite newsworthy in the fashions-for-fun sports picture. For sports outfits have been rating raves for years now. But now there are undergarments aplenty to enhance their lines comfortably.

Extra Short Girdle
Extra-short pantie girdles or briefs with detachable garters are perfect under short shorts. With the longer type, a pantie girdle that controls the thighs is recommended. Unless it fits over the thigh muscle, it may tend to roll when worn without hose.

The lightest two-way stretch will do a fine figure-refining job if you've a good line with which to start. For more control fore and aft, choose a pantie girdle with downstretch panels.

This control over the abdomen, incidentally, is also good support for the muscles when you're engaged in such activities as tennis and other ball games.

But a constricting garment will do more harm than good. Whether you choose one that provides light or firm support, select it in a size that fits easily. Of course,

On the tennis court, this outdoor beauty (right) wears a smart striped shirt with solid color shorts. Underneath, she wears a bra with firm cup support to safeguard against straining when reaching for the sky. Her girdle is an easy-fitting short pantie type.

It is important to try the garment on before buying it. Light and Sturdy Brassieres for sportswear breast tissue should also be light but sturdy. When selecting a bra, take a bra with elasticized undercups care to get exactly the right cup and band will allow easy stretch size. One that's either too small or large will be unhealthy as well as unflattering.

A bathing suit demands a good figure, this year particularly. For the reed slim tubular knits that were introduced last year are high among the fashion favorites for this summer.

And they are most demanding of all. Even if you are quite slim, you may find you want extra control beneath your new suit to give a trim, smooth line.

Elastic briefs are wonderful for this purpose. Because they are so form-fitting and so very brief, they won't be detected beneath the suit.

If your figure will benefit from added contour, slip a strapless bra inside the lining of your swimsuit. Though, of course, many of the suits now feature built-in bras.

Passing Of Extinct Birds Great Puzzle Of Science

WASHINGTON—Why did they pass—the moa, the dodo, and other birds now vanished from the face of the earth?

Among the strangest was the New Zealand moa, believed to have lived until the 14th century, says the National Geographic Society. One species, Dinornis maximus, was 10 to 12 feet tall. With big feet, small head, and long slender neck, it resembled an oversized ostrich.

Anthropologists have conjectured that the moas may have been wiped out by Maori or earlier hunters. Some say they met their end through flood, brush fire, earthquake—or mysterious decline in vitality after such a cataclysm.

Recently a Yale professor of biology concluded that the moas were so stupid they fed in forest swamps that sucked them down to death. The smaller species were quickly lost, and even giant birds were caught in the deep, sticky bog. In support of his theory, he points to many skeletons which scientists have recovered lately from swampland of the Pyramid Valley on New Zealand's South Island.

Wonderland Bird

"As dead as the dodo" is a common phrase to many people who, recalling the fantasies of Alice in Wonderland, are not even sure the bird ever lived. The dodo was real enough, however. A member of the pigeon family, it was clearly described by early navigators who encountered it on the Indian Ocean island of Mauritius.

Dodo remains have turned up on the island in the last century, to add substance to existing portraits made from life by 17th-century artists. Like the well-known Alice illustrations, these show a bulky, short-legged bird, with long beak and feeble wings.

There is little mystery, either, about the dodo's fate. It was exterminated in the late 1600's, following settlement of Mauritius, when the bird was killed for food, and its eggs and young were destroyed by newly introduced domestic animals.

Much less is known about the weird elephant bird that inhabited the neighboring island of Madagascar.

Inspired Sinbad's Roe

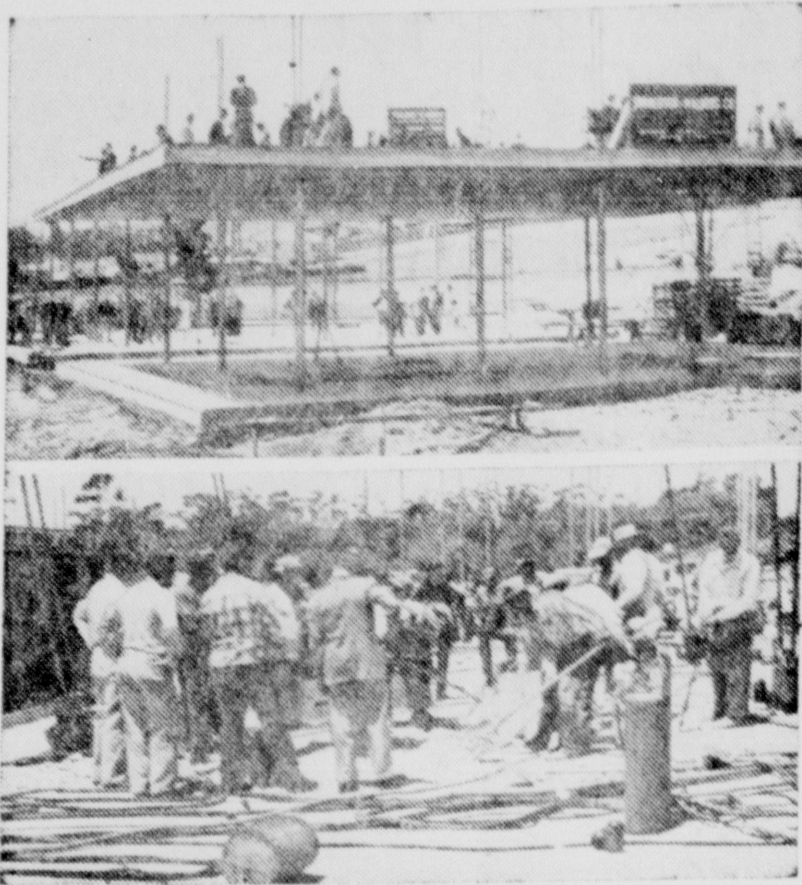

From massive bones and two-gallon eggs, ornithologists picture this bird, Aepyornis, as the giant of ostrich relatives. Fourteen feet high, it may have inspired Sinbad's fabulous roe of the Arabian Nights, though it could not fly, much less match the roe's feats of carrying off men.

Nobody knows exactly when or how the elephant bird died out. As late as the 1860's, islanders insisted some still lived in the interior of Madagascar. Cautious experts say merely that Aepyornis became extinct during the Christian era.

Of all the vanished birds, perhaps the most nightmarish was one whose fossil remains were discovered in Argentina about 1890. Called Mesembriornis by zoologists, it was a flightless, flesh-eating creature, five feet high, with huge, tearing beak and cruel claws. The "terror bird," as it was nicknamed, probably disappeared some 11 million years ago with a few to mourn it.

At the end, instead of mystery, full publicity attended the death from old age of the last known passenger pigeon, in September, 1914, in the Cincinnati zoo.

American mink ranchers marketed 2½ million mink pelts in 1953 compared to 1,200,000 in 1948.

AND THE ROOF CAME TUMBLING DOWN — The 600,000-pound concrete roof of the new Sierra High School in San Mateo, Calif., is shown being hoisted into position by powerful jacks mounted on supporting poles. To save time, the slab was poured on the ground and lifted into place. Moments later, the roof swayed and crashed to the ground injuring seven workers. Officials drill through 10-inch slab, bottom, to make sure no one is trapped beneath it.

Mayor Presents Letter To Group On Sewage Plant

In lieu of an appearance before the Michigan Water Resources Commission today in Houghton, Mayor A. W. Heitman presented a letter to that body at its Wednesday session at the Court House.

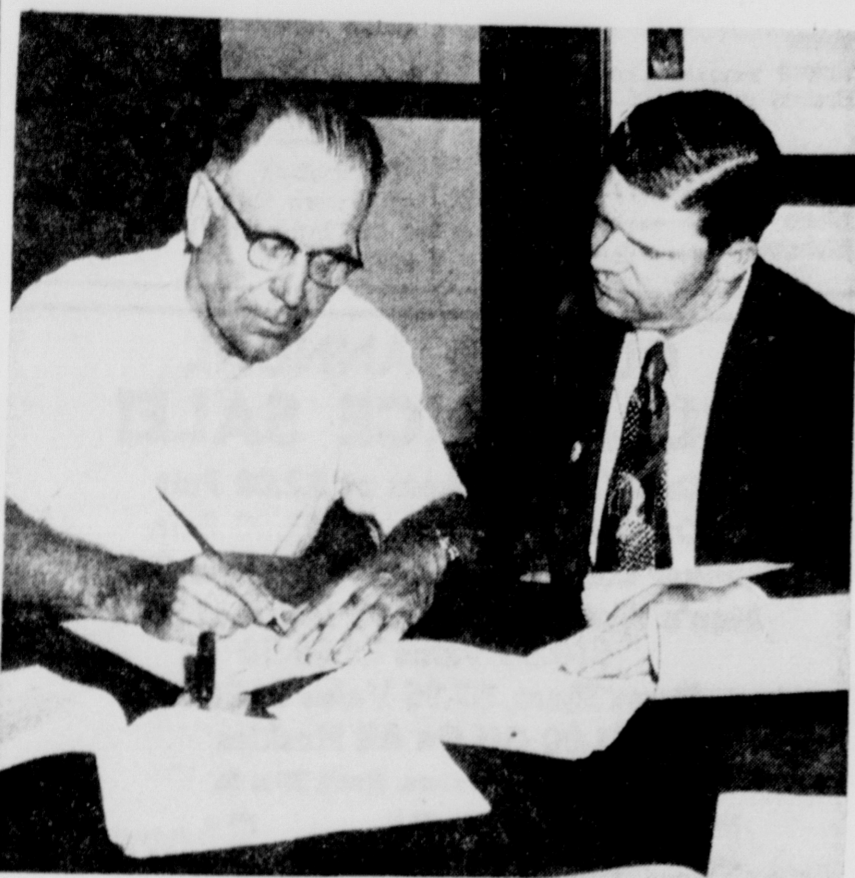

Representatives of the city had been directed to appear before the Commission today and "show cause why they should not be declared in default" of a 1950 anti-pollution order.

The directive required "abatement of pollution on or before June 1, 1954." It referred to sewage wastes. A sewage treatment plant was the desired solution.

In effect the letter told the Commission that the city "cannot say that it has taken any action" on the matter. It is understood that the City Council will not take action on a plant until directed to do so by court order.

If the Commission so desires, the default can be referred to the Attorney General for "appropriate action." A Resources ruling is hoped for Friday.

Milton G. Adams, the Commission's executive secretary, told Heitman Wednesday that the "State cannot go along indefinitely with the discharge of raw, untreated sewage." He also remarked that "the State has waited a long time on this."

SIGNS—Inland Lime and Stone Company Vice-President A. W. Heitman signs the concern's new two-year contract with Local 4302, United Steelworkers of America (CIO), as the Local's president, Harold Carlson, looks on. The agreement, signed Wednesday at the company's Manistique offices, includes a five cent "across-the-board" hourly wage increase and numerous fringe benefits. The union members agreed to the contract at two Sunday meetings. (Linderoth Photo)

Surplus, Not Supports, Key To Farm Prosperity

WASHINGTON—(CQ)—If surpluses were eliminated, farmers could shrug their shoulders at the current Congressional debate on whether to set minimum supports at 75, 82.5, or 90 per cent of parity, Congressional Quarterly found in a survey of behind-the-scenes factors affecting farm income.

Most industrial workers earn more than the legal minimum wage. They would not if there were 10 workers for every job. Similarly, farm surpluses depress markets, reducing prices to legal minimums.

There is disagreement over how much of the current stock is needed reserve and how much is surplus. But if whatever is surplus could be disposed of, market prices would rise above support levels. Legal price guarantees would remain only as a backstop against economic and natural upheavals to which agriculture is susceptible.

And taxpayers, who have more than $6 billion tied up in price-supported commodities, would be happier, despite the fact that much of the investment eventually will be recouped.

Reduction Difficult
Here are the main problems the government faces in disposing of surpluses:

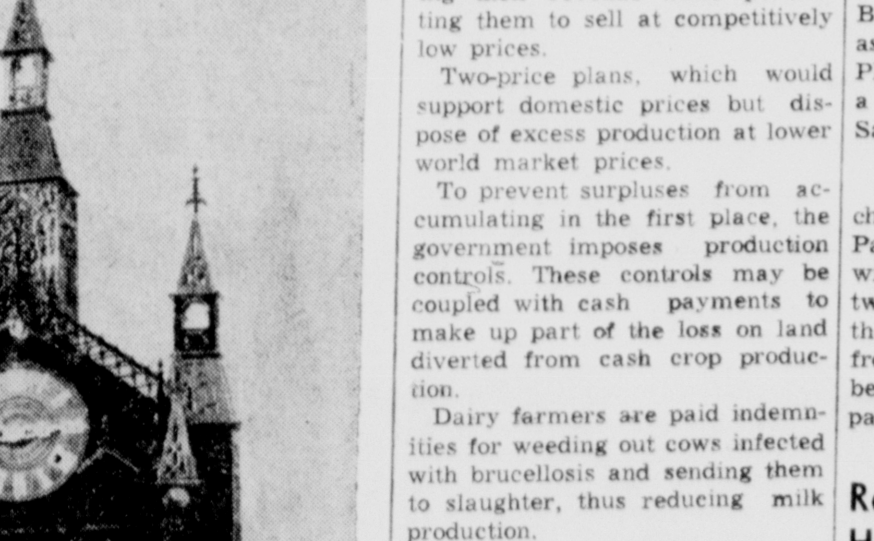

Competition with nations which undersell U. S. commodities, and with substitutes, such as synthetic fibers.

Trade barriers, which place exports at a competitive disadvantage.

Market disruption, which can result from donation or cut-rate sale.

The Administration places much faith for long-term solution of the surplus problem in what Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson calls "vigorous sales programs."

Holding a public hearing at the Court House on the Manistique Pulp and Paper Company's application for permission to discharge pulp mill wastes into Lake Michigan, the Michigan Water Resources Commission heard testimony Wednesday from proponents of the measure and hoped for a ruling Friday.

No opponents of the plan spoke before the commission although that body was open for objections. The proposed addition to the present mill would use a process of converting hardwoods, principally poplar and aspen, into pulp by a semi-chemical neutral sulfide method.

After being put through a settling tank the waste products would be pumped into the lake through a 24-inch pipe, 2,400 feet offshore.

Waste Distribution
Five 12-foot pipes would diffuse the effluent from a hexagon distribution box 20-inches deep at the terminal of the discharge pipe.

Loring F. Oeming, chief engineer for the Commission, thought that there would be a "tendency for the waste discharge to be driven in front of any wind." He presented the proposed ramifications and his findings to open the hearing.

Oeming also believed that there was no lateral drift in the area where the waste would be discharged. He used charts to illustrate his discussion and findings of wind currents offshore. Sixty per cent of the time the prevailing winds would send materials onto the city's beaches, he thought.

Winds from due south would deposit any floating objects against the harbor breakwater or beaches. A southeasterly breeze would send floating products in a westerly direction towards the beaches, about one-mile along the shore.

Southwest Winds
Breezes from the southwest would drive materials east towards shore near the city park. Winds from the north and north-east would send objects into the lake.

Oeming's belief that there would be no drift in the lake region proposed for discharge was substantiated by a June survey conducted by his office and reports of the United States Army Corps of Engineers. The Engineers surveyed the area near the turn of the century.

The engineer believed that development of nearby lake shores and beaches could be adversely affected by the project. He pointed to the fact that the project would be a "tendency for the wastes to diffuse, he thought."

After describing the proven commercial possibilities of the operation, as demonstrated by a Green Bay concern, August Schnyder, representing Ebasco, declared that the process "entailed the minimum amount of pollution that can be expected from a plant of this type."

Schnyder described the method as one that would chemically digest the logs and then put the material through a squeeze press. The black liquor would be squeezed out and disposed of by evaporation and burning in a waterless cooker.

The representative thought the bark refuse, currently polluting the river and lake, could be "licked and avoided." He also mentioned plans for increased mill efficiency and possible uses for the black liquor. It is being utilized on unpaved Wisconsin roads at the present time, he said.

Softball Activities May Be Discontinued
City Recreation Department softball activities for girls will be cancelled if enough participants do not attend the next sessions, Mrs. Joyce Butler announced Wednesday.

Softball programs are held 2 p. m., Friday at Central Park for girls eight years and older. Mrs. Butler directs the activity.

About 50 youngsters are participating in the arts, crafts and games program of the Recreational Department, however. One group meets at the Lakeside School Mondays and Wednesdays and the other convenes at Lincoln School Tuesday and Thursday.

The participants have been making plaster of paris figurines and painting their work. They have also made leather products and will soon start on belts.

Food Stamps Studied
Here are some disposal methods now being studied:

Distribution of free food stamps to the needy, enabling them to "buy" surpluses to augment purchases they make with dollars.

Cut-rate sales to consumers or to processors for resale at retail. Expansion of direct subsidies to farmers or processors, maintaining their revenue while permitting them to sell at competitively low prices.

Two-price plans, which would support domestic prices but dispose of excess production at lower world market prices.

To prevent surpluses from accumulating in the first place, the government imposes production controls. These controls may be coupled with cash payments to make up part of the loss on land diverted from cash crop production.

Dairy farmers are paid indemnities for weeding out cows infected with brucellosis and sending them to slaughter, thus reducing milk production.

And the Administration contends that its program of flexible supports would help eliminate surpluses at the source by adjusting production to demand.

Road Commission Buys Compensation Insurance
Taking the low bidder, the Schoolcraft County Road Commission voted to purchase industrial compensation insurance from the Martin Insurance Agency, Manistique, at their Tuesday evening meeting.

The new contract is for one year and covers all county workmen in accordance with provisions of Michigan workmen's compensation law.

In other action of the evening the commissioners discussed work progress and other routine matters.

ed to the beaches now being used for recreation.

Oeming also asserted that residual liquors from the effluent would probably discolor the beaches. He thought a dark brown stain would develop, near the color of certain Upper Peninsula swamps.

Fungus Growth
In response to questions from Commission member Lynn Baldwin, the engineer reported that some form of fungus growth could grow on the lake bottom and cause secondary problems.

Commercial fishing, since none is permitted within a three square-mile area near the river mouth, would not be affected by the proposed plant.

The speaker disclosed that the company's application, filed on its behalf by Ebasco Services of New York City, did not report what would be done with bark wastes. In a June survey refuse was found on the beaches and surrounding shores. This is prohibited by a state act of 1865.

After citing possible damages caused by the liquors, such as depleting the oxygen supply and causing death of fish by suffocation, Oeming thought that depletion would not occur to a great extent under the contemplated arrangements. Possible odor nuisances might develop from any oxygen deficiency, he said.

The waste discharge from the semi-chemical operations would include four million gallons of oxygen - consuming materials. There would also be wastes of 18,000 pounds of suspended and 6,000 pounds of settled solids.

Liquors remaining after the pulping process would be recovered and segregated. They would finally be evaporated and burned, the plans say.

Specific Gravity
Oeming called the probable specific gravity of the effluent "near that of water." There would be a tendency for the wastes to diffuse, he thought.

After describing the proven commercial possibilities of the operation, as demonstrated by a Green Bay concern, August Schnyder, representing Ebasco, declared that the process "entailed the minimum amount of pollution that can be expected from a plant of this type."

Schnyder described the method as one that would chemically digest the logs and then put the material through a squeeze press. The black liquor would be squeezed out and disposed of by evaporation and burning in a waterless cooker.

The representative thought the bark refuse, currently polluting the river and lake, could be "licked and avoided." He also mentioned plans for increased mill efficiency and possible uses for the black liquor. It is being utilized on unpaved Wisconsin roads at the present time, he said.

Local Resources
After advising the encouragement of industries that would use local resources, Heitman asked Walter H. Koepf, chemical engineer with the Forest Products Research Division of Michigan College of Mining and Technology, Houghton, to testify.

The engineer described the pulp industry as a natural outlet for unused forest resources of the Upper Peninsula, especially the hardwoods.

"The future economic health of the U. P., depends on the manner in which forest resources are used," Koepf read from a prepared paper. Surveys by his department revealed that the resources of low density — the hardwoods — were not being utilized.

In line with this Koepf declared that "commercial pulp of the highest quality can be produced from bleached sulfate aspen pulp." He thought that the wastes resulting from a process such as was contemplated would not be "dangerous."

C. L. Harrison, Supervisor of the Hiawatha National Forest, testified that 7,000 cords of aspen could be cut each year. More were reaching maturity all the time, he said. He was speaking as to the availability of the wood needed for the proposed plant's operations.

Manistique landowner Russell Watson declared that the supply of aspen and balsam of Gilead was plentiful within a 60-70 mile radius. Both the soft fiber woods were thought to exist in "appreciable acreages" by Carl Makel, Manistique River State Forester. Makel also disagreed with Watson, claiming the range for trucking to be 100 miles. He also pointed out that the area never has had a steady market for aspen.

Process Suitable
The semi-chemical method for converting hardwoods to pulp was called "very suitable" by Gardner Chidester. Chidester is chief of the pulp and paper section of the United States Forest Service Forest Products Laboratory, Madison, Wis.

He traced the growth of the semi-chemical pulp industry since World War II. He termed the spurt "very rapid" and disclosed that there are, at present, 30 mills using the process.

Roland Bradford, of Ebasco's Chicago office, told the Commission that mill plans did not distinguish between aspen and other hardwoods. He also said that the program called for poplar more than aspen.

Following testimony from the floor, Commission Chairman Gerald Eddy and Executive Secretary Milton P. Adams instructed the group that the Resources body could either reject the application or prepare an order approving the permit with restrictions.

Court Appeal
If a denial or a permit with restrictions was not satisfactory the applicant could appeal to the Commission. That body would hold a "formal" hearing. The next recourse would be the courts, Adams said.

In any event, Eddy stated, a favorable action "will not be a license to pollute."

Aside from Eddy, members of the Commission sitting at Wednesday's recorded hearings were Baldwin, Eaton Rapids; Irving Runk, Lansing; and Don Pierce, Lansing. Baldwin was appointed to represent conservation and sportsmen groups while Runk is Drain Engineer for the State Highway Commission and Pierce is a representative of the State Health Department.

Three other commissioners, absent Wednesday, met with the group today for hearings in Houghton. They will help decide the outcome of the application Friday. The three are George Liddle, Muskegon City Manager representing municipal governments; Frank Burke Jr., of Paloma, on the body as a delegate of industrial management; and George S. McIntyre, State Director of Agriculture, to testify.

Guardsmen Defeat Quarrymen By 5-2

Two markers in the third and three in the fourth were enough to defeat Inland Lime and Stone for the National Guard, 5-2, in the lone City Softball League encounter Wednesday evening at Central Park.

A scheduled contest between Fords and Top O' Lake was postponed at Fords request.

George Danko's walk, the first baseman's error on a ball hit by Francis Rochefort, Ed Doyle's second hit and pitcher Earl Tuftnell's bobble of a Merrill Cornell grounder gave the winner's their three in the fourth.

The inning was punctuated by a disputed play on Danko at second. Neither umpire saw the reputed out and the Guardsman eventually scored.

Cornell's line single over third, a hit by Bill Bauman and Don Anderson's deep fly produced a one marker in the third. Bill Holm's blast to left field scored another.

Inland grabbed one tally off the slants of Doyle in the first and another in the seventh. Doyle allowed just two hits during the fray. Tuftnell, in losing the contest, limited the Engineers to seven hits.

Old Steve Connects As Tigers Win 10-2

By JOE FALLS

DETROIT — Dripping sweat but smiling, Steve Souchock was told his two home runs Wednesday gave him exactly 50 in his big league career.

"That leaves you only 664 behind Babe Ruth's record," a baseball writer chided. "Think you'll catch him?"

"I sure will," Souchock shot back, "... in batting practice!"

It was only a small dressing room incident, good for a brief laugh, but it gave a sharp insight of a ball player who has had little to smile about this season.

The veteran left fielder of the Detroit Tigers, a bench rider for most of the season, knows he isn't going to be active in the big time much longer. But while he's around, he's going to enjoy playing ball—broken wrist or no.

The 35-year-old Souchock busted his wrist while playing winter ball in Cuba. It was a slow-healing injury.

Where Are $50,000 Phenoms?

AL KALINE
NEW YORK (AP)—Eleven major league clubs now have strings on 19 bonus players, but the jury is still out on whether any has made the grade.

A bonus player under the last rule change is a free agent who signed his first major league contract for more than $6,000 for his first season.

The eleven clubs during the last year and a half expended more than $500,000 on untied players. They must stick in the majors two years or be subject to baseball draft.

With the 1954 season well into its last half, there still is no outstanding bonus player. This isn't altogether the fault of the players. Most managers can't see tossing a rookie, especially one just out of high school, into the daily big league grind.

And fellows like Paul Giel of the Giants, Hugh Pepper of Pittsburgh, Bill O'Dell of Baltimore, Ron Jackson of the White Sox and Harmon Killebrew of Washington still are too new to have had a fair test.

Pittsburgh, faced with the toughest rebuilding job in the history of the majors, has five bonus boys. Two of the Pirates' best, Johnny and Eddie O'Brien, the Seattle University basketball twins from Perth Amboy, N. J., are in the Army, and due out next summer.

The Pirates also have Vic Janowicz, ex-Ohio State All-American; Pepper and Nick Koback.

The only clubs which have not picked up a bonus player since the rule was changed after the 1952 season are Brooklyn, Cincinnati and Chicago in the National League and Cleveland and Philadelphia in the American.

Thus far only two bonus selections have been getting any attention from their managers. Fred Hutchinson, who has done a fine job with young players in Detroit, has gone all the way with Al Kaline, 19-year-old son of a Baltimore broom maker. The 6-1 outfielder hit .245 in his first 76 games.

Lou Boudreau of the Red Sox thinks Bill Consolo, a 19-year-old kid from Los Angeles, someday will be a fine infielder. Boudreau uses Consolo whenever he can, but in his first 32 games the infielder batted only .159. Consolo and Janowicz will be off the bonus list at the close of this season — the second full year for each.

Other bonus players are Joe Jay and Mel Roach with Milwaukee, Joe Amalfitano with the Giants, Tom Qualters of the Phillies, John Schofield of the Cardinals, Bob Miller and Reno Bertoia of Detroit and Frank Leja of the Yankees.

New Eddie Stanky Is Subdued Skipper

By JACK HAND
For GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—Subdued is the word for the "new" Eddie Stanky who brought his Cardinals to the Polo Grounds for a series with his old playmates, the league-leading Giants.

No fiery-tempered little man came striding out of the dugout, with a chip on his shoulder, to wrangle with the umpires. He had a chance too, in the first game of the series when Stan Musial was called out at first on a very close play.

The fiery skipper with the unwelcome nickname of "The Brat" wasn't even on the field. Coach Johnny Riddle took his place on the lines at third base as he had done during Stanky's five-day suspension. You had to look sharp to see the manager, squatting in the dugout.

Still After Pennant
Apparently Stanky has taken to heart the blast of public disapproval that greeted his recent demonstration in St. Louis, where even the home fans cheered a forfeit decision against the Cardinals. As he said in St. Louis, "This affair has opened my eyes."

Marciano Ready To Fight Again

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP)—Rocky Marciano is in town today for a physical exam and a conference that probably will result in a Sept. 15 Yankee Stadium rematch with ex-champ Ezzard Charles.

The heavyweight champion has been vacationing at Cape Cod and Grossinger, N. Y. since he won a unanimous decision over Charles in a rousing 15-round bout at the Stadium, June 17.

After that battle, Dr. Vincent Nardiello operated on Marciano's eye, removing old scar tissue. He had been cut again early in the Charles bout and bled throughout the contest.

Rocky still wears a slight scar over the eye as the result of that operation but believes he will be ready to start boxing in a week or 10 days.

"I'd like to fight again this year," he said Wednesday. "The long layoff (nine months) was too much. I need more fights."

Miss Wall Plays 1953 Champion

By DICK MACGILL

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP)—Defending champion Claire Doran was the only Women's Western golf quarter-finalist to draw a par-busting opponent today as the three other favorites lined up against players who were 5, 6 and 7 over par in the second round.

Miss Doran will face scrappy Mary Agnes Wall of Menominee, Mich., who equaled the Cleveland school teacher's 1-under performance Wednesday.

Medalist Pat Lesser of Seattle and Mickey Wright of LaJolla, Calif., also came through the second round 1 under. Miss Lesser takes on Barbara McIntire, the Toledo, Ohio, district champ, who was 5 over, and Miss Wright will play Mrs. Mae Murray Jones of Rutland, Vt., who was 6 over.

In the other quarterfinal, Jane Nelson of Indianapolis, runner-up last year, tees off against blonde Beverly Gammon of St. Paul, Miss Nelson, after grabbing a 3-up lead in four holes Wednesday against Mrs. Marjorie Lindsey McMillen of Decatur, Ill., rode out a 2-and-1 victory one over par.

Science Studies Tobacco Effects

NEW YORK (AP)—The tobacco industry research committee has outlined a three-fold program on the basis of which it will award funds for scientific study of tobacco and its effects on smokers.

Dr. Clarence Cook Little, scientific director of the committee, said Tuesday that research will be conducted in these three areas:

"1. Study of the physical and chemical composition of tobacco and accompanying products.

"2. Study of tissue changes in humans and in animals under various conditions.

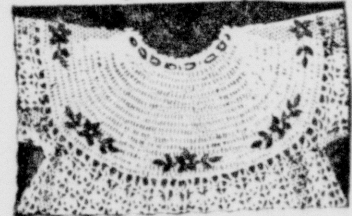

"3. Study of smoking and other tobacco habits and of the emotional and physical makeup of smokers."

Little said the committee's advisory board is reviewing applications for specific research projects. The committee was set up this year with an initial fund of $500,000 provided by cigarette manufacturers, tobacco growers and warehouse associations.

Formation of the committee was announced following reports that cancer was linked to cigarette smoking. Validity of these reports has been questioned by tobacco industry spokesmen and others.

U.S. To Defend Its Rights In Pacific, President Declares

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said the Chinese Communist attacks on American and British planes are part of the Red plan to split the Western allies. He declared the United States means to defend its rights.

The President told a news conference the American rescue planes which were attacked by the Chinese Communists were engaged in legitimate business.

The United States means to defend its right whenever it is engaged on legitimate business, he said.

More Debt Inevitable

The American aircraft shot down two Red planes after being attacked over the South China Sea. The President also dealt with these other matters:

Legislative program—Eisenhower said he would be more than bitterly disappointed if Congress should adjourn without approving such administration measures as those dealing with foreign aid, farm policy, tax revision, housing and social security.

And he added, in reply to a question, that he feels an increase in the 275 billion dollar national debt ceiling is inescapable.

Anglo-Egyptian—He said he is highly pleased with the agreement reached by Great Britain and Egypt on terms for settling their argument over the Suez Canal zone.

The agreement reflects statesmanship and patience on both sides, he said, adding that he hopes Egypt now will be able to advance with her friends from both economic and security standpoints.

Food prices—The President expressed the hope that food prices will stabilize if Congress passes the administration bill calling for a flexible farm price support program instead of the rigid support plan now in effect.

Tariffs—The United States, the President said, must continue to work toward a freer flow of world trade, even though he found it necessary to hike the tariff on certain imported watches up to 50 per cent.

Must Preserve Skills

Eisenhower ordered the increase Tuesday. Switzerland, which supplies this country with most of its imported watch movements, said the tariff hike dealt a serious blow not only to existing good relations between Switzerland and the United States, but also to the very principle of freedom of trade.

The President said he made a long study of whether to increase the duty on imported watches and concluded that from the standpoint of national defense it was imperative to preserve certain skilled industries in this country. He was referring, he said, to fine tolerance precision instruments.

German sovereignty—The President said he is not ready to announce just what steps he might take toward granting sovereignty to Western Germany. He made that reply when asked for his views on a resolution approved Tuesday by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. The resolution in effect supports sovereignty by direct presidential action unless France ratifies the European Defense Community Treaty.

Eisenhower said he thoroughly approves the resolution, but that the matter of just what steps might be taken will have to be left to further study.

Robbers Clean Out Bank At Pevely, Mo.

PEVELY, Mo. (AP)—The Bank of Pevely had to make arrangements to get money from a St. Louis bank so it could open. Two robbers made off with every cent in the bank Tuesday.

They took $40,174, bank officials said.

"The first I knew about it was when one of the men climbed over the top of the tellers' cage—about eight feet high—and looked into the loan department," said William A. Weber, 38, the cashier.

Weber and four other employees were ordered into a vault, but the robbers left the door partially open to give them air.

The escape car was found abandoned on a country road 3 1/2 miles from this community of 300 about 25 miles south of St. Louis.

Oats Crop Light

CHEBOYGAN (AP)—Cheboygan County got its first rain in over a month Tuesday. The county agriculture agent said the soaking rain came too late for the oats crop. He added that regardless of rain that comes now, "northern Michigan oats are going to be light and scarce this year."

THEY'RE NOT BROKE—Dressed in the latest clothes for nudists, a well-shaped member of the Sanatans Nudist Club of San Antonio, Tex., walks down the steps followed by the president of the club who looks like he's just left a poker game. They are both en route to the National Nudist Convention at Battle Creek, Mich., starting Aug. 3. She is identified only as "Opal," he as "Herb."

Train Kills Mother

SAGINAW (AP)—The body of a young Saginaw mother, apparently killed by a train, was discovered Tuesday by three children playing near the tracks of the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad in the southwestern part of Saginaw County. The victim was Mrs. Mabel Agnes Barton, 22, mother of two.
